Changing the Climate

Applying the Bible in a climate emergency

Debbie Hawker, David Hawker, Jamie Hawker

Pb, ISBN 978 1 80039 022 5, £9.99

Pre-publication praise has been heaped on this new title from the Hawker family. Written to help engage families and churches with the Bible and motivate them to take action on climate change, the Hawkers' key purpose is to show that ordinary people can make a difference in tackling the climate emergency we all face. The book includes young people's voices from around the world and offers clear, Bible-based action points, with the aim of challenging readers of all ages to act on the issue of climate justice.

Generations working together

'A generation of young people are passionate about the climate,' write the Hawkers in their Preface: 'We want to help them to be passionate about the Bible too, by showing what the Bible says about creation care. We believe that everyone needs to know about climate change and that it's useful to know what the Bible has to say about it. Changing the Climate refers to every book in the Bible. Can you spot them all?'

Praise for Changing the Climate

'I wish this book had been available when my children were younger! It's wise and informative yet wonderfully easy to read. It moves from the biblical to the practical, the local to the global, making the complex simple and succeeding in being both deeply challenging yet also life-affirming and hopeful.' Revd Dr Dave Bookless, director of theology, A Rocha International and author of Planetwise

'This is one of the best and most accessible books I have read on why Christians should care about climate change, and what we can do about it. This is a book to be read and shared with your family, friends and church.' Caroline Pomeroy, director, Climate Stewards
