All Shall Be Well

Visions of salvation with Julian of Norwich

Emma Pennington

Pb, ISBN 978 1 80039 206 9, £12.99

Julian's famous words 'All shall be well' have brought hope and comfort to many – simple words that shine light into and on to the darkest of days and the most hopeless of situations. But what happens when all is not well, when pain and suffering return, when there is no solution to fix the problem, when there is no happy ending?

As Emma Pennington shows in her new richly illustrated book, this is the searching, questioning cry that Julian keeps returning to time and again. Only when she has pummelled Jesus with questions of how and why does he eventually reveal to her the heavenly meaning of his words 'All shall be well', a meaning which reaches beyond the trite and simplistic into the mystery of salvation. Through deep engagement with Julian's visions of salvation, Emma encourages the reader to reflect in prayer and devotion on their own personal relationship with God.

'Reading this book is an extraordinary encounter with a beautiful questioning holiness. Deep scholarship made elegantly accessible brings Mother Julian alive. It is a book that will help you grow in your faith and would be perfect for an Advent or Lent series in a church.' The Very Revd Ian S. Markham

'This is a beautifully written book which is both refreshing and original. In it, Julian's writings are interwoven with scripture and set within the devotional literature and landscape of the time, giving both rootedness and context. It is a book which is the fruit not only of careful study, but also of prayerful pondering and reflection.' Sister Elizabeth Jane CSMV

'Like Julian herself, Emma helps us face the challenges of faith lived out in a broken world, while also encouraging us to be a people of joyous hope and generous humanity.' Andrew Braddock, dean of Norwich
